What is MassageNet?

MassageNet is a Practice-based Research Network (PBRN). PBRNs utilize data collected in clinical practice, rather than in a research environment. This method offers researchers the ability to better understand what actually happens in the field, rather than what happens in the tightly controlled research setting.

PBRNs have not traditionally focused on complementary and alternative medicine (CAM) practitioners, leaving a gap in the field of healthcare knowledge. We hope to fill this gap through a focus on how massage therapy contributes to health.

Our goal is to create a member-driven community of massage focused clinicians, researchers, and allies that allows massage therapists to engage in research at various levels.
